Our Town July 31, 2014

The Soupster hears strange murmurs

"There!" Mike pointed out the tiny purple star of a fireweed blossom, opening high on the stalk. "When the blossoms reach the top, summer is ending."

The Soupster regarded his friend bending over the plant, growing alongside the totem path.

"The raindrops have been getting bigger lately," he said in agreement. "And starting to angle sideways, a little. Season's a-changing, Mike."

The two men walked on in silence. The soft forest floor muffled the sound of their steps and they passed by the totem poles without waking them.

"Do you miss having four distinct seasons?" the Soupster asked his friend, who hailed originally from Back East. "Real hot weather and real cold weather?"

"I don't," Mike answered. "I like Our Town's three seasons better. Three seasons: light all the time, dark all the time and exactly half and half."

"And exactly half and half occurs twice a year, right? Between dark all the time and light all the time."

"You got it, Soupster," Mike said.

They were quiet again. All around the two men, still dripping from that morning's rain, much of the vegetation was deep in cogitation – probably chemically – laboring to decide whether it was time to start switching over to "dormant" or whether they could wrest a little more benefit out of this summer.

The Soupster thought he could hear them murmuring

"You hear that?" he asked Mike.

"Hear what?" Mike said.

Then they both heard it, on the breeze, sounding like: "esaelp dens..."

"I hear it," said Mike and the two men looked around them.

The next breeze brought the murmur again: "esaelp dens su nair, dens su nair."

Mike and the Soupster quickened their pace. In an open area around the next turn a lone man stood looking at the sky and saying "Esaelp dens su nair, dens su nair. Stol fo nair!"

The man realized he was being watched.

"May I respectfully ask what you are doing?" said the Soupster.

"My sister is getting married on the 23rd and she's terrified it's going to rain and ruin everything. I promised her I'd do what I could to keep it from raining that day."

"OK, but in what language were you asking for it not to rain?" asked Mike, stepping forward.

"English," said the man. "And I was asking for it to rain, not not rain."

"I thought your sister didn't want it to rain?" asked the Soupster.

"Oh, I'm asking for rain backward," said the man. "I thought if I asked for rain backward..."

"Then it wouldn't rain!" said Mike.

"I don't know how well your plan is going to work," said the Soupster, with a sympathetic tone. "Maybe you could do something else also. Like a Plan B?"

"Last week, I tried doing a rain dance backward," said the man. "But I hurt my leg."

Local Food

Have you ever wanted to go to the Sitka Farmers Market, but couldn't because there's no regular bus service on Saturday? Well, now you can. The Sitka Local Foods Network and Sitka Tours are teaming up to offer free, scheduled transportation to the last Farmers Markets this summer. Sitka Tours will send a shuttle van to make one loop of three Sitka Community Rides before the Sitka Farmers Markets open at 10am. The shuttle will return to ANB Founders Hall at noon to take people home. The pick-up times and stops are: Sawmill Cr. Apts (Price & Burkhart Sts), 9:45am, Indian River Rd (Kaasdaa Heen), 9:50am, Swan Lake Senior Center/Salvation Army (Lake St), 10am. This service is offered through a grant from the City and Borough of Sitka that paid for bus service to four markets. Sitka Tours helped us expand the service to five markets by donating the service for an extra market. The last three Sitka Farmers Markets take place from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays, Aug. 9, Aug. 23, and Sept. 6., Ad#96153

Free dirt is now available to the people of Sitka for their gardening needs. On a trial basis, your Sitka Local Foods Network (SLFN) worked with and formalized an agreement with the City, School District, and the Blatchley Community Gardens to provide free dirt to individuals, families, and non-commercial entities. The dirt pile is located at Blatchley Community Gardens, behind Blatchley School. The pile is to the right (north) of the community garden and only dirt between the signs should be removed. People can remove dirt at any time, though avoiding school hours when school is in session is preferred. "This is raw dirt, mostly from land development in forest and muskeg lots around Sitka. It is NOT top soil, but it is a good starting point for gardens when mixed with locally purchased lime and sand, and locally purchased or produced compost, manure, and other organic materials," said Michelle Putz, SLFN VP. The Sitka Local Foods Network asks that gardeners not remove sand, rocks, live kelp or live creatures from local beaches to build their soil. People taking dirt should bring their own shovels & containers. To make sure there is enough for everyone, SLFN asks Sitkans to take as much as you need but please do not use it for commercial use or developing a lot. People who are coming for dirt need to respect the gardens, gardeners, compost, equipment and other materials by only taking dirt from the pile and not removing or using anything else at the site. Local contractors, like Troy's Excavation, are providing the dirt. If this trial goes well, the Foods Network hopes to continue to provide dirt. Those with questions or wishing to help volunteer on this or other SLFN projects should call Michelle at 747-2708. Ad#68753

Q. Where will my PSA or classified ad be seen?

Sitka Farmers Markets will be held 10am-1pm Sat., Aug. 9, Aug. 23, & Sept. 6 at the ANB Founders Hall (235 Katlian St.). The markets feature local seafood (fresh, frozen, and cooked, ready to eat), locally grown and harvested fruits and vegetables, baked goods, locally made jams and jellies, live entertainment and music, local arts and crafts, and a variety of other items gathered or made in Sitka. We emphasize local products and lots of fun. We were the first farmers market in Southeast Alaska to accept WIC coupons and Alaska Quest EBT for SNAP (food stamp) users. will be shut down and commissioning of the new power house and associated systems will begin. This means that Sitka's pristine drinking water from Blue Lake will temporarily be switched to filtered water from Indian River beginning as early as July 15, 2014 and lasting as long as 120 days. The filtration system at Indian River will be intermittently tested with treated water flowing into the distribution system beginning as early as July 15 and fully switched by August 24. Also beginning August 24, Sitka will be drawing all its energy from the Green Lake Hydroelectric Project and using diesel generation if needed. Please conserve energy and water. While the schedule for completion is set for early November, this period may be extended to complete commissioning. The traffic light Power Supply Status will be frequently updated and current lake levels can be found at www.cityofsitka.com. For more information please visit

I'M A BABY!

I'M LOOKING AT YOU, KID!

A BLOAT OF HIPPOS

BIG TEETH!

Hippopotamuses or hippos are found in Africa • Their name is Greek for "river horse" • Hippos can grow up to 10 feet long and weigh 7,000 pounds. Hippos rest in water by day, which helps keep them cool • At night, the hippos come out of the water to eat grass • Hippos can run faster than a human • Hippos have their babies in the water • A baby hippo is called a "calf." To protect their skin from the hot sun, hippos ooze a thick red goo from their skin • The red goo acts like sunscreen! • Hippos are very dangerous -- they result in more human deaths than any other large animal in Africa.
