Our Town May 7, 2015 The Soupster greets a secretive new Senior

There in order to pay her utility bills, Betty graciously held the door open for the Soupster, who was exiting City Hall. They exchanged greetings and the Soupster ambled off easterly toward the center of Our Town.

Betty was relieved the Soupster didn't know it was her birthday. She wasn't sure how she felt about turning 65. Although she had been enjoying a few over-55 senior discounts in the Lower 48, Our Town didn't offer any benefits until 65. And, oh boy, did they then!

At sixty-five, a resident of Our Town enjoyed exemption from the dreaded sales tax that buzzed around every monetary transaction like a mosquito. That's why on Tax Free Day in the fall, everybody acted like someone who could walk in the woods at dusk in short sleeves without wearing bug dope.

By accepting the exemption, you had to declare yourself a Senior (Citizen) once and for all. Betty wasn't quite sure she was ready to do that. Still, not to claim the discount she was allowed? She stayed comfortable enough, as long as she watched pennies. But she wasn't so rich she could turn her back on a 5 percent discount on the entirety of Our Town.

Betty had barely made it inside City Hall when Leah of the Big Smile accosted her. "Howdy, Betty, whatcha doin'?" Leah pronounced it "Beddy."

"Here to pay your utility bill?" said Leah, flashing seriously white choppers. "Bills going up and up. What a pain! And then they charge you sales tax on top of it. We're all going to sit in the dark and shiver someday soon, you mark my words."

"Well, taxes are important," said Betty, hoping she didn't sound like a Public Service Announcement. "The library and hospital, roads and schools – you know what I mean. It's how we pool all our money together to do the things we need to do."

"You have a good attitude," said Leah, pronouncing it "additude." "You'd almost think you didn't have to, personally, pay the sales tax."

Then, Betty's husband's friend Mick, who worked in Planning, came down the stairs and whizzed past the two stationary women, saying: "Hi, Leah. And hello, Birthday Girl! I told your husband to get you something nice."

"Birthday Girl?" asked Leah of the Big Smile. "Today is your birthday? How old are you?"

"Sixty-five," Betty squeaked.

Although it seemed anatomically impossible, Leah smiled even wider.

Like to write an Our Town? It must be 450-500 words long & closely connected with the life of Sitkans. The Soupster must make an appearance in the story – even if briefly. If we run your story, we'll pay you $50.

To submit: Email the story to shop@sitkasoup.com and put "Our Town" in the Subject line. Or call: 747-7595

All Hip Replacements are NOT Created Equally!!

There is a surgical procedure available that can allow you to have a complete hip replacement and:

- Eliminate the need for physical therapy
- Allow you to cross your legs hours after surgery
- Walk with a cane instead of a walker
- Possibly return to work within one to two weeks
- Use no drugs stronger than Tylenol
- There are only two restrictions after surgery

To find out if you are a good candidate for this remarkable procedure, call my office 747-2726 to schedule your consultation. Your initial orthopedic and radiographic exam can be performed in the comfort of our local office.

I would be honored to assist you in regaining the pain-free life you once lived.
