All Hip Replacements are NOT Created Equally!!

There is a surgical procedure available that can allow you to have a complete hip replacement and:

- Eliminate the need for physical therapy
- Allow you to cross your legs hours after surgery
- Walk with a cane instead of a walker
- Possibly return to work within one to two weeks
- Use no drugs stronger than Tylenol
- There are only two restrictions after surgery

To find out if you are a good candidate for this remarkable procedure, call my office 747-2726 to schedule your consultation. Your initial orthopedic and radiographic exam can be performed in the comfort of our local office.

I would be honored to assist you in regaining the pain-free life you once lived.

Our Town Sept. 24, 2015

The Soupster visits a mad scientist

Old Steve Parks lived in a dilapidated wooden structure facing a road that was a logging trail not long before (as opposed to New Steve Parks who lived in town). Folks wondered what went on, not so much in Old Steve's house, as in the equally-dilapidated accessory building he called his shop.

The Soupster rolled up on the long gravel driveway, gave his bike's kickstand a boot and knocked on the door. "Old Steve!" he called.

"Soupster!" called Old Steve from inside the shop. "Come on over!"

Old Steve met the Soupster at the shop door, wearing goggles and leather gloves. "I'm glad you're here," Steve said, "I need a hand."

Steve's request gave the Soupster a start – but in a good way. Old Steve, old irascible Steve, was brilliant and anyone who talked to him for even a moment knew it. Word was that Steve had a PhD in aeronautical engineering and electronics. Word was he had worked for NASA. Word was he had flamed out, took the proceeds from his patents, and moved out the road in Our Town.

Old Steve knocked his goggles onto his forehead and showed the Soupster deep into the spacious shop, which looked like a combination metal shop and chemistry lab. An eight-foot tall, conically-shaped object covered by a tarp was next to a ladder that reached up to the ceiling.

"It's a retractable roof," said Old Steve, pointing to the area above the ladder. "I need your help to open it."

He posted the Soupster next to a large metal hand crank, then climbed the ladder and started banging with a hammer.

"Metal is so unyielding," the Soupster said.

"Not as much as some people," Old Steve called.

"How so?" the Soupster asked.

"Well," Steve drew a long breath, "you can bang on metal and you can reroute electricity, but with people sometimes you're stuck with what you have."

"You're on to something, Steve," said the Soupster. "Scientists used to believe that it was tool-making or something technological that caused the brains of our far-ago ancestors to grow big. Now, a lot of them theorize that it was navigating complicated social relationships in those ancient groups that caused our ancestors' brains to grow."

With a last slap of the hammer, Steve forced the mechanism loose. "Now turn the crank," he called, which opened a four-foot square in the shop roof.

Old Steve clambered excitedly down the ladder and grabbed the tarp. He pulled it off to reveal an eight-foot tall silver cylinder.

"You going to space, Steve?" the Soupster asked.

"Not in this," said Steve. "This is a model for testing. I'm having a problem modulating the temperature of my liquid oxygen fuel, and the pitch-and-yaw controls are all screwy. Any suggestions?"

The Soupster looked blank.

"But don't let me waste your time, Soupster," said Old Steve. "You save your big brain for those social situations. I can handle this." He lifted a screwdriver and started opening a panel. "After all, it's just rocket science!"

Russian Orthodox Cathedral on Lincoln Street. The Fun Run is part of the End-of-Season Celebration festivities hosted downtown by the Greater Sitka Chamber of Commerce and the Alaska Cruise Line Association. "We'll have a blast dancing to a blues band under the big tent!" race organizer Kerry MacLane exclaimed. "We'll have music, hot chocolate, and folks can enjoy a complimentary lunch after oodles of prizes have been awarded." So what is the Running of the Boots? It's Southeast Alaska's answer to Spain's "Running of the Bulls." Sitkans wear zany costumes and XtraTufs — Southeast Alaska's distinctive rubber boots (aka, Sitka Sneakers). The Running of the Boots raises funds for the Sitka Local Foods Network, a nonprofit organization that hosts the Sitka Farmers Market and advocates for community gardens, a community greenhouse, sustainable uses of traditional subsistence foods and education for Sitka gardeners. The Running of the Boots is a short race for fun and not for speed, even though one of the many prize categories is for the fastest boots. Other prize categories include best-dressed boots, zaniest costume, best couple, best kids group and more. The entry fee for the Running of the Boots is $5 per person and $20 per family, and people can register for the race starting at 10 a.m. Costume judging starts about 10:30 a.m., and runners hit the streets at 11 a.m. As usual, local merchants have donated bushels of prizes for the costume contest. The Sitka Local Foods Network will host a Sitka Farmers Market booth with fresh veggies for sale. The booth takes debit cards, WIC vouchers and Alaska Quest electronic benefit cards. "This is a really fun way to advance the Sitka Farmers Market and our other Sitka Local Foods Network projects," MacLane said. "This is a must-see annual change-of-the season tradition in Sitka." To learn more about the Running of the Boots, contact Kerry MacLane at 752-0654 or 747-7888, or by email at maclanekerry@yahoo.com. Ad#8855e8

Musicians use their hands and mouths to play instruments, but dancers use their whole bodies for their art • A dancer must be as strong and agile as an athlete • There are many forms of dance such as ballet, folk dance, Native dance, as well as swing dancing and break dancing • Bees do a special dance when they return to the hive. The dance tells other bees where they will find the best flowers!
