Our Town 12/17/2020

"BAGH!" Liz exclaimed, tossing her hands up. Frazzled, she didn't notice her friend at the other end of the long, fluorescent-lit aisle of Our Town's hardware store.

"Liz?" the Soupster turned his head, recognizing her voice. "Friend, is that you!?" he asked in surprise. It was! Though they hadn't crossed paths in many, many months, they recognized one another's mask-muffled voices.

"Soupster! Gosh," she laughed, "How in tarnation are you?" The two friends smiled large beneath their masks, approached nearer, stopping short at 8' apart (yet feeling as near as ever). They didn't share a bubble, so they were both giddy at the chance to briefly share an aisle.

Liz's big eyes brightened, tired though they were. Soupster saw the exhaustion, the strain of months and months of life disrupted.

"Not too shabby, honestly." he replied, as overhead, the holiday shopping music bellowed out a surreal Kenny-G-meets-Black-Sabbath hybrid version of Have Yourself A Merry Little Christmas. Feeling Liz's tender energy and wishing he could give her a hug, the Soupster gently motioned his head upward, "Say, what do you think of this version?" he asked.

"You know, Soupster, this song has always been a holiday favorite of mine, though this one's a bit much." she admitted.

"Mine too." The Soupster agreed. Sometimes we 'hang a shining star upon the highest bough'. Other times we 'muddle through somehow' and, occasionally, we do both." He sighed.

The Soupster longs for a merry little Christmas...

"So true. How many holiday tunes do you know that both acknowledge the melancholy - missing loved ones during the holidays - yet remain hopeful and optimistic?"

The Soupster began to mentally shuffle through the hundreds of holiday tunes residing in his memory.

Liz continued, "Judy Garland's version is the best - my heart cracks when I hear it. She was the queen muddler. Though Sinatra found the lyric depressing and had it re-written, which is why we can 'have it both ways' but we rarely do. Seems artists pick one and stick with it."

"Let's see..." mused the Soupster, "Mel Torme, Bing Crosby, even Bob Dylan sings it both ways - muddling through the first verse and reaching the highest bough on the second."

"Ella Fitzgerald, too!" Liz added. "Though when she belts it, even the muddling through is somehow upbeat, swinging and hopeful." The sides of Liz's eyes were lifted in smile.

"Have Yourself A Merry Little Christmas was birthed during WWII, dark times to be sure." The Soupster said.

"It's really something that after 80 years this song still has the power to move us so," said Liz.

Glad to feel Liz's spirits lifting, the Soupster asked, "Worst version?"

"This one!" Liz shot back without hesitation and rolling her eyes with a chuckle.

Fine Arts Camp - This fall, SFAC staff created a plan for Camp 2021. We are hopeful that our plan will allow students to come together in-person at the Fine Arts Camp next summer. Our plan is based on the current reality of COVID-19 with a multi-layered approach, using recommendations from the CDC, the American Camp Assoc., the AK Dept. of Health & Social Services & our regional medical provider, SEARHC. Our plan is flexible, allowing us to react to changes between now & summer. We will open registration, as we traditionally have, at midnight on Jan. 1st. Our current plan has reduced enrollment & we expect space will fill quickly. We recommend registering early to reserve your child's spot. Read about our Covid-Mitigation Plan at <https://www.fineartscamp.org/covid19.html>

Potential Severe Weather

- CBS encourages residents to prepare for potential severe winter weather. Severe winter weather may involve strong winds, flooding, landslides, heavy rain/snow & severe cold temperatures. In these extreme cases, residents must be prepared for prolonged power outages, difficult-to-impossible travel, and stores & businesses being closed. CBS encourages all residents to stay informed of changing weather conditions, build home emergency kits, have family & business emergency plans, check on your property often, and take steps to mitigate the impacts of severe weather. Monitor the Nat. Weather Center Juneau Forecast at weather.gov/ajk. Have a battery-operated radio in case of a power outage. Build an emergency kit for your home & car in case you lose power and/or are isolated during severe weather. Have enough food, water, batteries, medicines & other supplies to last for at least 72 hours. Plan w/family & household members for what to do & how to communicate in an emergency. # BEETHOVEN

This month marks the 250th anniversary of Ludvig Van Beethoven's birth. Beethoven is one of the most influential & remarkable composers of western music. To this day his compositions speak to & of humanity in an indelible fashion, full of emotion and impact.

Because of his bust, Beethoven is often thought of as grim but don't be fooled!

Hearing Impaired

In his 20s - at the time when his reputation as one of the greatest composers was growing, his hearing loss worsened. He was frustrated & embarrassed by his deafness.

Staggering Volume

Beethoven composed more than 700 works.

Brilliance

Beethoven straddled the bridge between the Classical and Romantic, when music went from being written primarily for nobility, to being written for everybody.

Itzhak Perlman & The Berlin Philharmoniker performing Beethoven

"He's writing from his huge heart to the heart of humanity — with whom he has such poor contact at a level of human intercourse, but colossal contact in terms of the outreach that we revere in his music. And the fact that here we are 250 years after his birth celebrating a man of such immense universal genius who was not writing just for his time, even though it reflects his time and the concerns of his time, but reflects ours as well."

~ Sir John Eliot Gardiner, a leading Beethoven interpreter.
