Making A Difference: Two of Sitka's Affordable Housing Providers

SCLT creates community-supported, sustainable and affordable home ownership for people of low and moderate income.

- Acquires land and buildings to create affordable housing
- Develops land in an environmentally and socially responsible manner
- Constructs or renovates buildings that are healthy, durable and energy efficient
- Educates and counsels homebuyers and renters
- Preserves affordability for future buyers
- Creates high density neighborhoods with shared commons

Current and forecasted landslide risk for Sitka, Alaska

visit sitkalandslide.org

Understanding risk

High

Multiple landslides are very likely to occur in the Sitka area. There have been three storms in the last 20 years with similarly intense rainfall, and all three of them initiated multiple landslides.

Medium

Landslides are possible. Isolated landslides have occurred in Sitka with similarly intense rainfall in the past.

Low

Landslides are unlikely based on historic observations in the last 20 years. Rainfall-induced landslides have not been documented for these rainfall conditions.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT

By Abigail FitzGibbon

Affordable housing is in short supply across the U.S., and Sitka is no exception. Luckily, local organizations – including Baranof Island Housing Authority (BIHA) and Sitka Community Land Trust (SCLT) – are stepping up to tackle this issue. Both provide housing to eligible Sitkans at affordable prices.

Created by private citizens, SCLT originated as the Sitka Community Development Corporation in 2006 and became a community land trust in 2014. Their mission statement declares that the trust “creates lasting affordable home ownership opportunities for people of low and moderate income in Sitka.”

SCLT house structures are available to people earning 120% or less of Sitka’s annual median income (estimated at $85,850 for one person, adjusted by headcount per household). Preference goes to seniors and those earning 80% of AMI or less. The resale prices homeowners can set are limited, to ensure houses remain permanently affordable. Applications and further information are available at sitkaclt.org. Co-Executive Director Mim McConnell offers to answer questions personally for Sitkans wanting to learn more.

BIHA was created in 1980 and currently manages 87 affordable rentals and home ownership units. “Our primary focus is on providing affordable housing opportunities to eligible Sitka Tribe of Alaska Tribal Citizens and members of other tribes,” says Executive Director Cliff Richter. BIHA also has apartments for seniors and some housing available to the general public. “It all starts with our housing application,” Richter stresses. “Don’t put it off. Get started on yours today.” If a vacant unit is not available, approved applicants will be added to a wait list.

BIHA and SCLT

BIHA also offers eligible tribal members financial literacy counseling and home repair assistance and can provide up to $5,000 towards home purchase closing costs. Its student housing voucher program contributes up to $1,000 annually per eligible student towards housing associated with higher education or training.

Applications for all BIHA programs, information about job opportunities and more can be found at bihasitka.org, or by calling 747-5088 or emailing info@bihasitka.org.

Both BIHA and SCLT aim to construct at least one new house per year. BIHA’s next project is a duplex on Gil Truitt Court. The organization is also designing its next phase of 4-plexes to be constructed at 140 Indian River Road and has plans to extend Herb Didrickson Street for future residential growth.

SCLT is currently building the S’us’ Héeni Sháak Community Neighborhood, a 14-cottage conglomerate on HPR. Designs are available on SCLT’s website, and McConnell says the trust is “definitely interested” in garnering additional applicants for the neighborhood.

SCLT accepts donations through their site. “Anybody donating to help a low-income person get into one of our homes, that money...is retained with the home over time,” McConnell says. “One of the wonderful things about a community land trust is that it retains subsidies for generations. So... they’re not just helping one family, they’re helping multiple families over the years.” Sitkans can reach out to sitkaclt@gmail.com or call McConnell at (907) 738-2888.

As for BIHA, they’re seeking a housing program specialist and a full-time, permanent maintenance worker – applications available online!

Protect Blue Lake Watershed

CBS urges all who access the lake

The City Public Works Department asks for help from citizens in protecting the Blue Lake Watershed. Water resources are affected by both natural and human activities. Help us preserve and protect the lake by picking up trash and pet waste. Report suspicious activity. Please practice responsible recreation in our watershed and leave no trace. For more info, contact the CBS Environmental Superintendent at (907) 747-4060.

Recycling Center Accepted Materials

Timely Message from CBS

The Sitka Public Works Department urges citizens to follow instructions and signage at the Recycle Center at 802 Sawmill Creek Rd. Recycled items are separated and baled for shipping off island. Contaminates to our recycle goods prevent us from obtaining a return on the recycled materials. The contaminated materials must be sent to the landfill and are costly. The Recycle Center accepts aluminum, corrugated cardboard, glass, metal, newspaper, and plastic #1 and #2. For more info, visit the Solid Waste Page under the Public Works Department at cityofsitka.com or call (907) 747-1804.

Autumn Classics Concerts

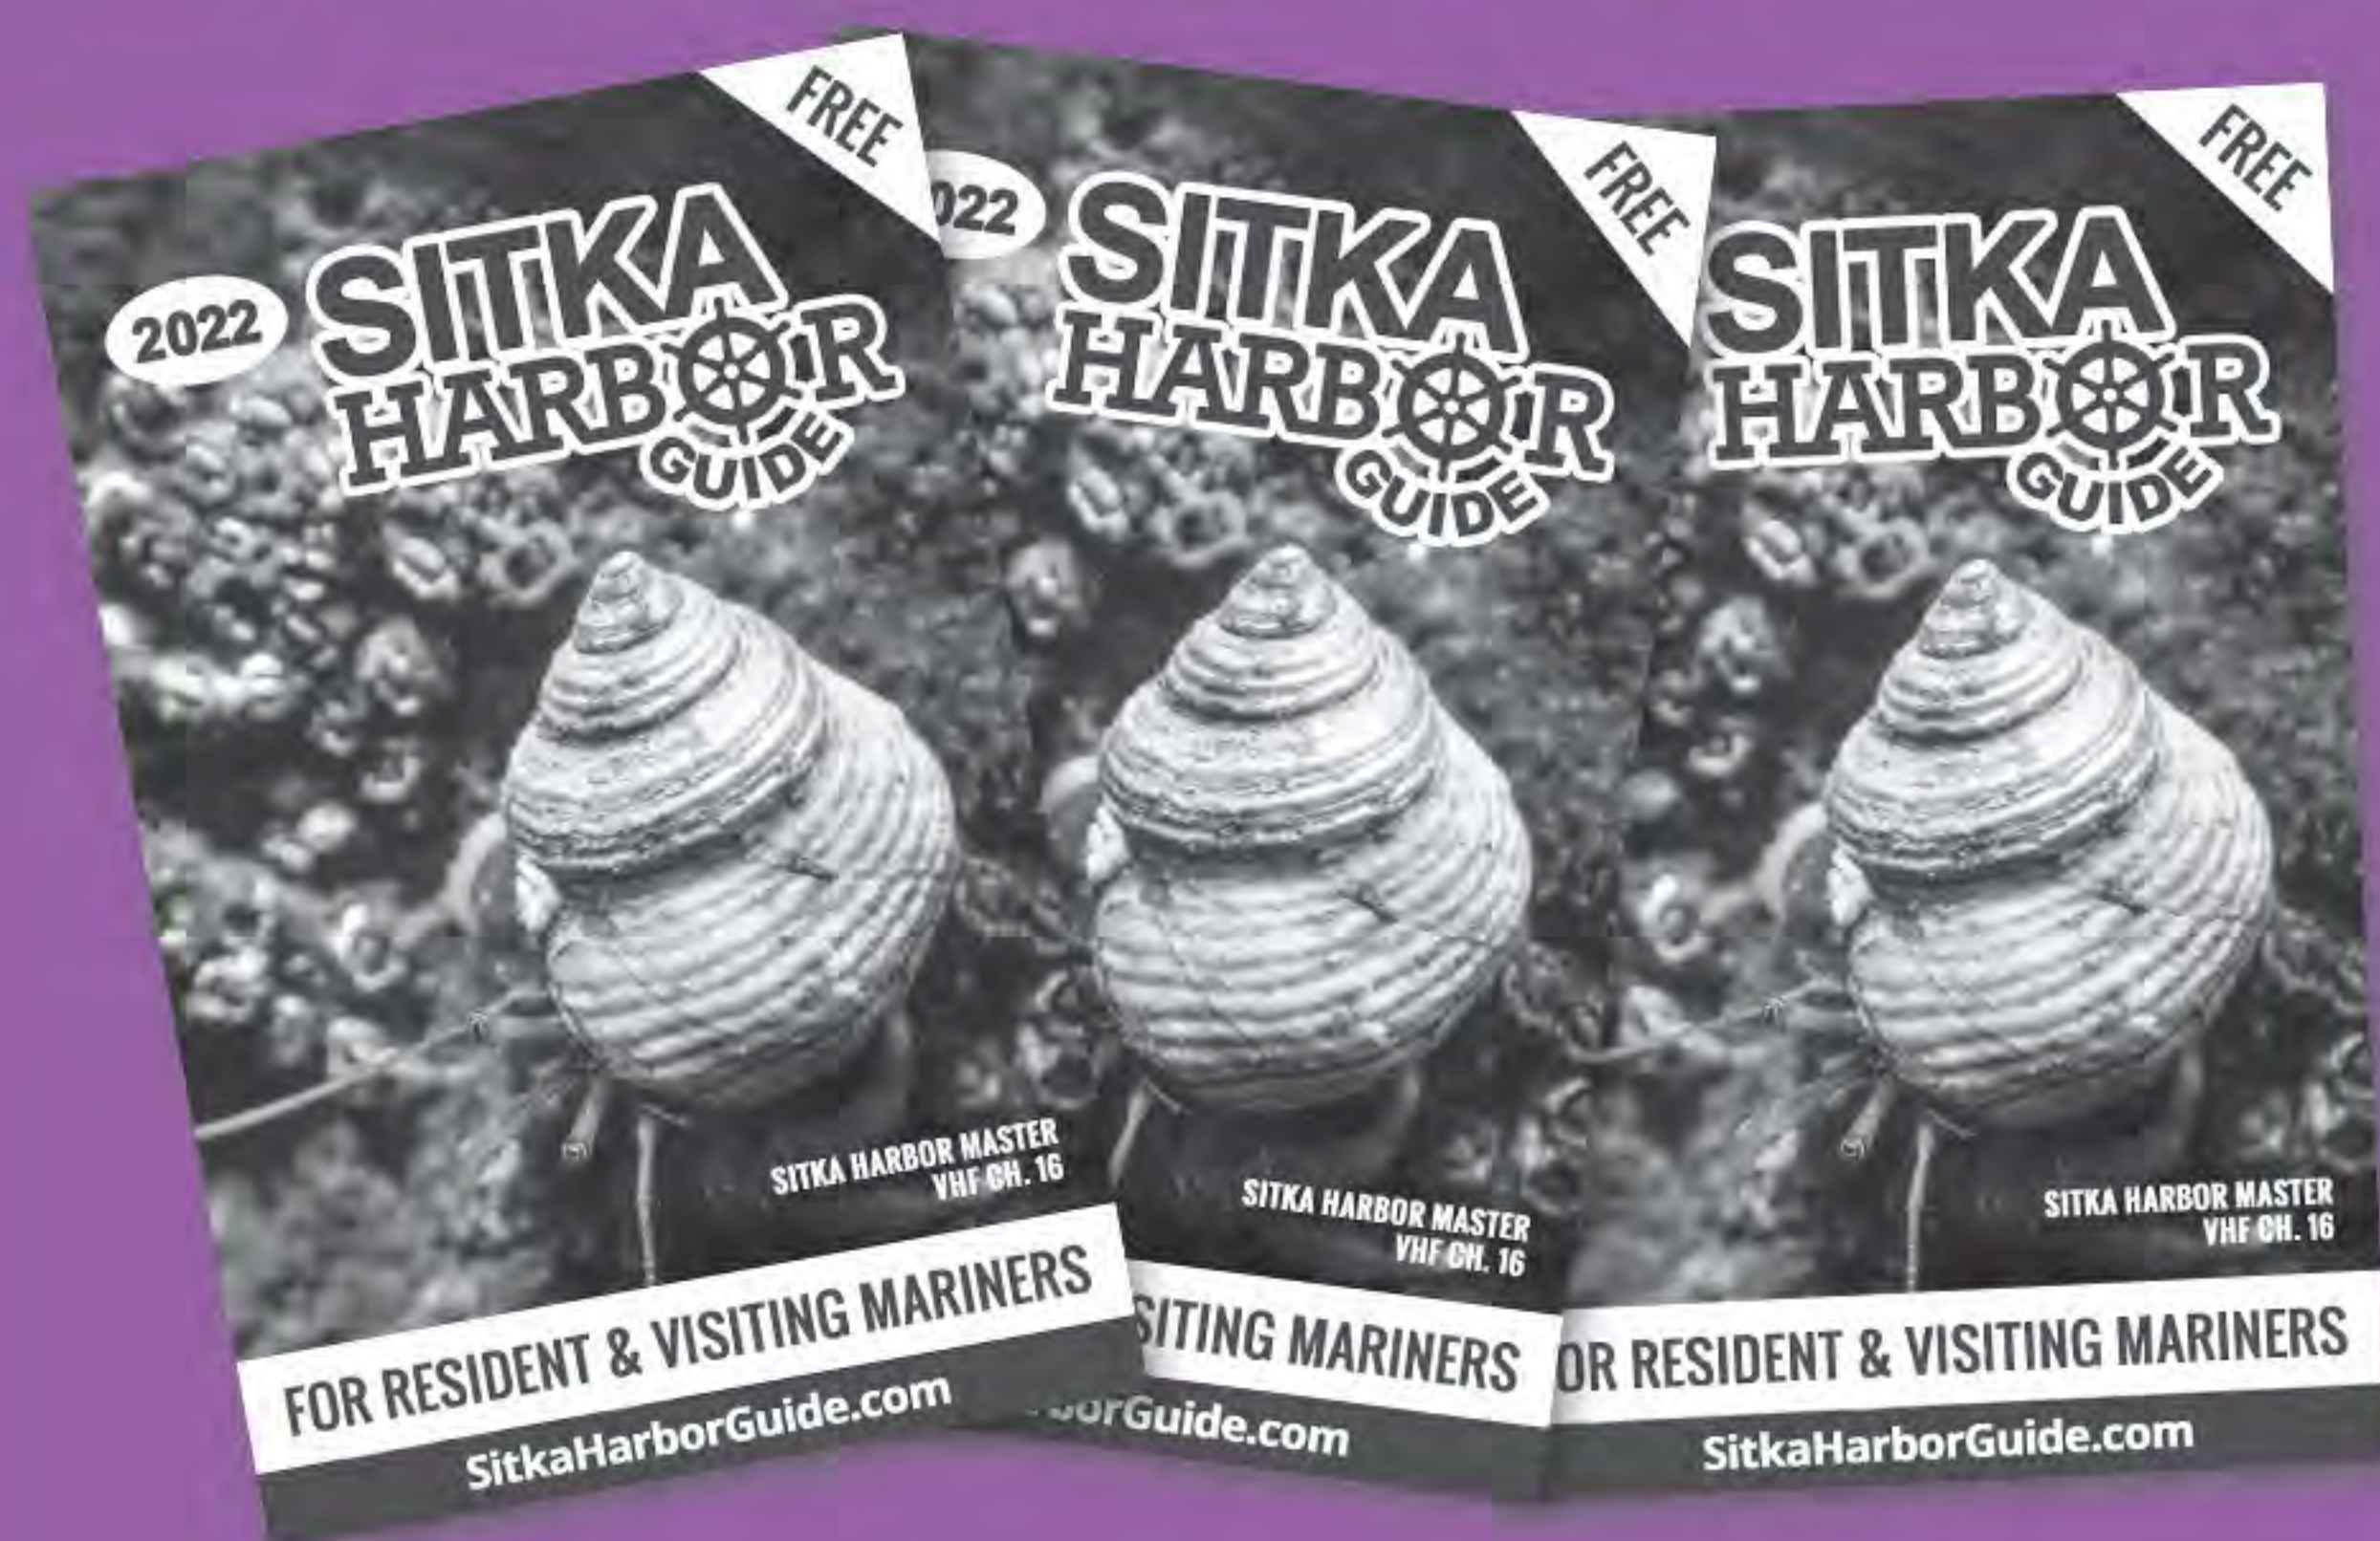

By Sitka Music Festival & Alaska Airlines

Wednesday, Sep 28, 7pm at Sitka Performing Arts Center

Featuring "Simply Three" – a YouTube sensation with over a million subscribers. This classically trained string trio destroys boundaries and pushes limits by adding their flair and innovation to popular arrangements and new compositions. Watch Simply Three shred strings before your eyes featuring rock, pop, and original music in a way you have never heard before. Their covers are described as "highly imaginative," earning praise from publications such as The Huffington Post and Rolling Stone Magazine, as well as artists like Janelle Monae and OneRepublic. Their debut original album, "Undefined," received equally high regard by landing on the Billboard charts. Nick Villalobos on bass, Zack Clark on cello and Glen McDaniel on violin. We can't wait to see you there! Please follow our Covid-19 Policy: Masks will be required at all concerts. Policy subject to change. Visit sitkamusicalfestival.org for more info and to buy tickets. Tickets are $35 for adults, $30 for seniors and $25 for students.

What is a Ramada?

In the southwest a ramada is a partially enclosed shelter equipped with a roof, but no walls. The ramada pictured to the left is protecting an ancient ruin from the sunshine in Casa Grande Ruins National Monument. Ramadas are similar to the shelters found at the Halibut Point Rec Area.
