Our Town July 12, 2012

Carrie told the Soupster he talked too much and her criticism stung. The Soupster knew he could go on and on – maybe a tiny, little bit? -- but he didn't know his friend had been suffering. And for "quite a while," no less.

"I bet you can't keep your conversation to a minimum even for one day," Carrie threw down the gauntlet. "Not even for one whole day."

"I can," the Soupster insisted. "And I will!"

Today was the day. The first mission of the new, zip-lipped Soupster was to check the mail at the post office. As the Soupster strolled downtown, he had to duck into a few storefronts to avoid fellow chatterboxes who might stress-test his mettle.

"Soupman!" The call came from Charlie, a hiking buddy who, unfortunately, happened to be in a store the Soupster had judged free of customers. "Tell me what's new with the Man in the Can?"

"Not much," said the Soupster, wishing he could have thought of a one-word answer. "Gotta go," he said slipping out of the store.

Out of the frying pan and into the fire? Two busfuls of visitors hit the sidewalk and poured around the Soupster like a human wave.

Hide in plain sight? The Soupster pulled his cap low on his forehead and attempted to avoid eye contact with the cheery migrants surrounding him.

No use! The Soupster felt his lapels being patted and looked down into the face of an older man wearing a tag that said, "Hi! I'm Horace!"

"Hi, I'm Horace," he stated the obvious, grasping the Soupster's hand and shaking it vigorously. "I'm new to these shores."

"Hi, Horace," said the Soupster.

"Yup, this is some different place," Horace said. "Where's all the big box chain stores? Don't you have any big box chain stores?"

"Nope," said the Soupster.

"Our bus driver said he was taking us all over town but we only went five or six miles one way and then seven or eight the other. That can't be all the road you have."

"Yup," said the Soupster, zipping his lips so tight he could taste metal.

"And this rain I keep hearing about," Horace plunged on. "It's certainly not raining now. Is going to rain soon? Am I going to get wet? I mean, isn't this town too nice to be built by people who get rained on every day?"

As the Soupster moaned silently, a beam of sunlight illuminated a break in the throng of tourists ahead. "Yup," said the Soupster, shaking Horace's hand. "Nope," he added. And then the Soupster escaped.

You do not need to know how to draw to create intricate spirals and interfacing. This course will introduce the basic system that underlies the weaving and then give you the secret paths. Bring nothing more than a pencil, pencil sharpener, eraser and colored pens; leave with a booklet of patterns and passion for Celtic design. This class will appeal to Quilters, Beaders, Carvers, and other folks who work with wood. Even good for tattoos! Local Food

The Sitka Local Foods Network will host its fifth summer of Sitka Farmers Markets with markets that take place on alternate Saturdays through Sept. 15. The Sitka Farmers Markets give Sitka residents a chance to buy and sell locally produced food and crafts. The Sitka Farmers Markets take place from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday, July 21, Aug. 4, 18, Sept. 1 and 15 at ANB Hall (235 Katlian St.). The markets feature local seafood (fresh, frozen, and cooked, ready to eat), locally grown and harvested fruits and vegetables, baked bread, locally made jams and jellies, cooking demonstrations, live entertainment, locally brewed and roasted coffee, music, local arts and crafts, and a variety of other items gathered or made in Sitka. We emphasize local products and lots of fun. We are the first farmers market in Southeast Alaska to accept WIC coupons. Vendor fees are $20 for a 6-foot table, $30 for an 8-foot table and $15 for a 4-foot table. Vendors with their own tents pay $2 per foot. As always, we offer cost incentives for vendors growing locally produced food. The fees will help us cover the costs of renting ANB Hall and its kitchen, hiring musicians and other expenses. To learn more about being a vendor or to sign up for a table, contact Sitka Farmers

DEEP SEA MANNED SUBMERSIBLE

YOUNG SNORKLER

ONE WAY TO CATCH ALASKA KING CRAB

The Manned Submersible (above left) is owned by film director James Cameron, who made "Titanic" and "Avatar" and uses his sub to travel much deeper than divers can go • Snorkels let you see fish and other underwater animals and plants while staying near the surface of the water • Scuba gear (above right) lets you breathe from tanks. SCUBA stands for Self-Contained Underwater Breathing Apparatus • Free divers (right) go very deep just by learning to hold their breath.
