Our Town September 11, 2014

The Soupster helps rename Autumn

"Wet enough for ya'?" the Soupster asked his friend, Rex Havick, who was shaking off rainwater like a dog in the mudroom, before hanging his slicker on a peg.

"It's water torture," Rex countered, as he stepped into the house. "One drip is fine, but a billion'll drive you crazy."

"I like the sound of the rain," said the Soupster. "Remember our culture's brief flirtation with negative ion generators?"

"Negative ions," said Rex, "that are produced by things like waterfalls, rainbows and whiskers on kittens."

"You remember the song!" said a delighted Soupster. "Hey, Rex, come over here by the window and sit down."

The large window faced the ocean, wild that day, churning and absorbing the billions of gallons of rainwater. The two humans stood transfixed at the flurry of whitecaps whipped by the wind, but the ocean was unimpressed. "Meh," it said.

The Soupster cranked open the window and bid Rex sit down in the wicker chair by the table with the potted calendula. "Shhhh," he said, as Rex took his seat. The Soupster sat beneath the philodendron.

Outside the window was a porch covered with stiff, thin fiberglass panels. The rain hitting the porch roof sounded like a high-medium tom-tom drum, which varied in speed and pitch with the size of the raindrops and the velocity they were falling at.

"Cool, huh?" said the Soupster.

"Very negative ion," said Rex and the two men lapsed into silence.

A passing squall kicked up the volume and speed of the downpour and Rex grunted with appreciation. The amount of rain overwhelmed the gutters of the Soupster's house and water fell like a curtain from the edge of the porch roof. The men had to raise their voices a little to be heard.

"So much water," said the Soupster.

"Meanwhile, my friends tell me the drought is so bad where they live, people are painting their burned lawns green."

"Like everything else, those that got enough already, get more," Rex said, "and those without don't,"

"Why is that?" asked the Soupster, but Rex's answer was drowned out as the rain fell even harder and even faster and much, much, louder.

"Rain like this can't just be falling," said Rex, "it's got some kind of propulsion behind it. They call the season Fall, but they really ought to be calling it "Throwing it at us."

"What?" asked the Soupster over the din.

"I said they should call the season "Throwing it at us!" yelled Rex.

Like to write an Our Town? It must be 450-500 words long & closely connected with the life of Sitkans. The Soupster must make an appearance in the story – even minor. If we run your story, we will pay $50. To submit: Email the story to: shop@sitkasoup.com and put "Our Town" in the Subject line. Or call 747-7595.

Boots, Running of

It's time to dig your XtraTufs out of the closet and gussy them up. The 20th annual Running of the Boots begins at 10am on Sat, Sept. 27, at the big tent near St. Michael of the Archangel Russian Orthodox Cathedral on Lincoln Street. This will allow the race to be a bigger part of the End-of-Season Celebration festivities hosted downtown The Running of the Boots raises funds for the Sitka Local Foods Network, a non-profit organization that hosts the Sitka Farmers Market and advocates for community gardens, a community greenhouse, sustainable uses of traditional subsistence foods and education for Sitka gardeners. The Running of the Boots is a short race for fun and not for speed, Prize categories include best-dressed boots, zaniest costume, best couple, best kids group and more.The entry fee is $5 per person and $20 per family, and people can register for the race starting at 10am. Costume judging starts about 10:30am., and runners hit the streets at 11 The Sitka Local Foods Network will host a Sitka Farmers Market booth with fresh veggies for sale. To learn more about the Running of the Boots, contact Kerry MacLane at 752-0654 or 747-7888, or by email at maclanekerry@yahoo.com. Historical information about the race (through 2005) can be found online at http://www.runningoftheboots.org/. Ad#88653

Third Weekly Blue Lake Generation Outage Update SITKA, September 2, 2014 — Blue Lake hit a historical milestone on Sunday, August 31, 2014, reaching elevation 342 and then some (photo below). Elevation 342 is where Blue Lake would have spilled but is now on its way up to the new dam elevation of 425. Also on Sunday, Dorz Dumag was announced as the winner of the lake level contest by guessing the correct day Blue Lake would hit Elevation 342! The Electric Department also achieved an exciting feat last week by completing extensive testing and commissioning and are happy to announce the new Titan 130 diesel-turbine at Jarvis Street is available for service. This new unit is the largest single generator in the Sitka system at 13 MW and will provide emergency power for system outages. The generation outage is on track and scheduled to end October 18. IT IS STILL VERY IMPORTANT TO CONSERVE BOTH ELECTICITY AND WATER until October 18! For updates on water quality, equipment testing, progress and more information please visit www.facebook.com/cityofsitka or www.bluelakeexpansion.com. Sign up for text/email updates on GovDelivery at www.cityofsitka.com. Current Power Supply Status: Red. Red - Stop Using Electric Heat: It is certain that significant supplemental diesel generation will be required. Please switch to an alternate heat source (oil, wood, etc.) and conserve electricity. For additional information, contact: Electric Department 907-747-4000 information@bluelakeexpansion.com. A new notice will be sent concerning updates on the status of the generation outage with current lake levels each week beginning August 18, 2014 and ending when the outage is complete. Ad#19954

Sharing the Road Safely with School Buses School buses are one of the safest forms of transportation on the road today. The reality of school bus safety is that more children are hurt outside the bus than inside as passengers. Most of the children who lose their lives in bus-related crashes are pedestrians, four to seven years old, who are hit by the bus or by motorists illegally passing a stopped school bus. A law in Alaska makes it illegal to pass a school bus that is stopped to load or unload children. School buses use yellow flashing lights to alert motorists that they are preparing to stop to load or unload children. Red flashing lights and an extended stop sign arm signals to motorists that the bus is stopped and children are getting on or off the bus. All 50 states require that traffic in both directions stop on undivided roadways when students are entering or exiting a school bus. The area 10 feet around a school bus is where children are in the most danger of being hit. Stop your car far enough from the bus to allow children the necessary space to safely enter and exit the bus. Never pass a school bus on the right. It is illegal and could have tragic consequences Ad#55153

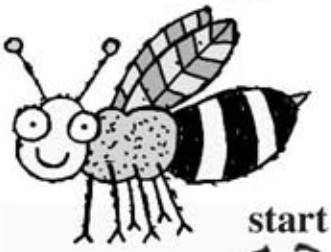
BEEKEEPER

BEE HIVE IN TREE

THANK YOU, BEES FOR HONEY

HER BEARD IS MADE OF BEES!



Bees have been around for more than 30 million years • Bees have 6 legs and 5 eyes • Bees can fly about 15 mph • Bees are the only insects that make food -- honey -- that humans can eat • Bacteria cannot not grow in honey, so it never goes bad. People found honey in ancient tombs in Egypt and could still eat the honey! • Bees use their honey-comb cells to raise their babies in and to store honey, pollen and nectar they have brought back from flowers.
