The Soupster has yucks aplenty

"I have never seen so many boats! This place is nuts!" the professional comedian on the stage of a tavern full of laughaholics.

"I noticed you have a nice Salvation Army store," the jokester commented. "But with your boats? What this place needs is a`Salvation Navy!' store. You know -- used Xtra Tufs and rain gear. Going from boat to boat with the bell and the red kettle at Christmas. They're so compassionate, that Salvation Navy, that their boat hugs the shore!"

"You people are nuts with your rain gear. I've never seen anything like it," he continued. "I heard you once had a rain gear fashion show here. One fisherman went to Mexico for vacation, saw a comely lass in a bikini and commented, `I'd sure like to see her in a Helly-Hansen rain bib.'"

The crowd liked this, and the Soupster, sitting three tables back from the front, could see the thrill of victory in the comic's eyes and the square of his shoulders.

"Rains a lot here, I must say," said the jester on a roll. "Rains cats and dogs. I know. I just stepped in a poodle!"

The crowd – including the Soupster -- groaned.

"Really though, I'm walking down Lincoln Street with the guy who met me at the airport," said the comedian. "And who do we see but the Pillsbury Doughboy. My friend says, `Nice tan!'"

"I see this little boy and ask him if it ever stops raining here. `How do I know,' he says. "I'm only six!"

"No, but rain is great," the joker said. "I heard that at the gates of Hell, someone saw Satan throwing the doomed into a huge lake of fire, but every once in a while he tossed someone aside in a pile. `What's that for?' asked a curious on-looker. `They're from Sitka,' answered Beelzebub. `I have to dry them out before they can burn.'"

The Soupster convulsed in howls and chuckles, joining those around him doing the same.

"And I've heard of your bears – I've heard of your bears," the hyper comic sped on.

"Did you hear about the religious man walking in the woods, when he came upon a stupendous and ravenous brown bear? Shocked, the man dropped to his knees to pray for deliverance. `Lord,' the pious man prayed. "Let this be a good and pious bear." When the man opened his eyes, the bear was also down on his knees saying, "For the food we are about to receive, we give thanks..."

The Soupster and the crowd roared.

"Gotta go, gotta go," said the comic. "I've abused you people long enough. Besides, it's been 10 minutes since I've been rained on and my skin is getting dry. Gotta go. Love you guys!"

The Soupster and the others screamed, "Encore!"

"Okay, okay," said the funnyman. "What's more Alaskan than having a backhoe in the back yard? Having a broken backhoe in your front yard! Now that's it. Really! I'm getting upset. Goodnight!"

The University of Alaska Southeast, Sitka Campus, offers a class for people and their dogs. Dog Agility and Obedience will be offered concurrently, on Tuesday evenings from 6 to 7pm thru June 23. Depending on the age and previous training of the dog, students may select either the Obedience skills or the Agility activities during the class time. If the class warrants it, the instructors may divide the students into two separate groups, focused on either agility or obedience. The class is taught by Susan and Karen Royce. The Agility segment is designed for dogs at least 6 months of age who have had either a puppy kindergarten class or a basic obedience class (or the approval of the instructors). According to the instructors, "it builds confidence in your dog, builds your relationship with your dog, is great mental and physical exercise for your dog and you, and is a total blast!" The specific activities taught in the class include: jumping, tunneling, retrieving, "pause" board, and weave poles. The Dog Obedience segment teaches basic good manners: obedience to "sit, stay, and come" commands, plus games for fun, "tricks" for alleviating boredom, and what to do about separation anxiety. The cost of the class is $100. Students can sign up at the UAS front desk. For more information contact UAS at 747-7700. Ad#673554

There is a surgical procedure available that can allow you to have a complete hip replacement and:

- Eliminate the need for physical therapy
- Allow you to cross your legs hours after surgery
- Walk with a cane instead of a walker
- Possibly return to work within one to two weeks
- Use no drugs stronger than Tylenol
- There are only two restrictions after surgery

Health & Wellness

SAIL Supports Independent Living Southeast Alaska Independent Living (SAIL)'s mission is simple. It is to Inspire Personal Independence. The fundamental purpose of the SAIL Sitka Program is to empower Southeast Alaskan seniors and people with disabilities by promoting options to live as active, productive, and involved citizens. SAIL does this by providing services and supports necessary for independent living. As Sitka's Age and Disability Resource Center, SAIL offers numerous services: Resources, research and information to assist independent living. Information and loans of assistive technology and durable medical devices. Recreation and inclusion programs throughout the community through the Home modification assessments to make homes more accessible. Presentations and training about the best independent living equipment. Peer support groups for individuals experiencing similar disabilities. Benefit assistance with state and federal programs. Support applying for grants, loans and emergency financial assistance. Provide educational and outreach programs to the larger Sitka community. Stop by the SAIL office at 514 Lake St Suite C, or call at 747-6859 to find out how SAIL's services can work for you! Ad#153553

DEREK HIRAI OF SITKA NATIONAL CHAMPION

AIRBORNE DOUBLE DUTCH

Ancient Egyptions used to jump, except they used vines instead of ropes • In some places, it is called "rope skipping." Using two ropes instead of one is known as Double Dutch. Many famous athletes jump rope as part of their training to gain strength and timing • Derek Hirai won a large number of events at the World International Jumprope Championship in 1999, including two gold medals!
