Our Town Aug. 27, 2015

Orginally published Aug. 24, 2006

The Soupster hears confessions from a lover of Our Town

"Because it feels so good when I stop," Grant -- sitting with the Soupster at the sushi bar -- tried to say while cramming his mouth with Alaska roll.

"Feels so good when you stop what?" said the Soupster, who had been distracted by the sushi chef's artful chopping of a huge geoduck clam.

"Well – a long time ago – I used to mean living in Our Town," said Grant, signaling to the chef to prepare some geoduck for them.

"Really?" asked a skeptical Soupster. "You hated it here that much?"

"When I first moved here the smallness of Our Town got to me," said Grant. "Having just a few choices for everything – I became bored with that pronto. I came here in the Coast Guard – from Governor's Island in New York harbor. With all due respect -- Lincoln Street ain't Times Square."

"Seems like we have everything we need here," said the Soupster defensively.

Grant ignored him. "And the rain," the former Coastie said. "The constant rain drove me insane. All the time. The summer I transferred here was like this summer. I came to Our Town in May and waited until early November for more than a single dry day in a row. And actual sunny days? I have a one-armed buddy who could count them for you."

"Kept my sense of humor, though," Grant continued. "I remembered the old joke about the man hitting himself in the face. You heard it?"

The Soupster shook his head.

"A man is hitting himself repeatedly in the face," said Grant. "His friend is horrified. `Why ever would you do that?' asked the friend. Says the first man, `Because it feels so good when I stop!'

"That's the way I felt. I loved Our Town, for those first few years." said Grant. "Cause it felt so good when I went back to civilization. To the United Contiguous Lower 48 states."

"I never felt that way," said the Soupster, who had lived in Our Town longer than most professional baseball players had walked the earth. "Those first few years, I wanted to drag everyone I knew up here to live. I got over that, though."

The sushi arrived. Both men loved the delicate taste of geoduck neck meat – like butter melting in their mouths – and neither spoke while they attacked the plate. Our Town was one of the few places this side of China and Japan where the giant clams made it to the menu.

Grant stopped chewing, spoke first.

"I don't feel that way anymore," he said. "Over the years, each time I returned to Our Town from a trip Outside I grew happier and happier to be home. Our Town came to be normal for me, just the right size. Now, there's only one good reason I ever like to be in the Contiguous United States."

"You mean...?" asked the Soupster.

Grant nodded. "Because it feels so darned good when I stop!"

the 2015 Sitka Farmers Market! Markets are every other Saturday running until Sept 12. For more information contact market manager, Debe at 738-8683. Registration forms and guidelines can be found at http://sitkalocalfoodsnetwork.org under "documents". Ad#31355c

The 2015 Sitka Farmers Market will again accept QUEST cards for food stamp benefits during the upcoming farmers market season. In addition, the Sitka Local Foods Network (SLFN) will match up to $20 per food stamp participant per market until resources are exhausted. So a family of 4 on food stamps could end up with an extra $80 per market to use on approved foods like vegetables, breads, fish, jam, starts, etc. Find the SLFN booth at the market and cash in your benefits for market coins to spend at the market. It's that easy! Email sitkalocalfoodsnetwork@gmail.com or call 747-5985 with questions. Ad#64955c

Miscellaneous

Many residents have noticed full recycle containers or missing containers at the Recycle Center on Sawmill Cr R. Alaska Pacific Environmental Services (APES) has experienced a major mechanical failure requiring the purchase of a new vehicle. In the meantime, the Recycle Drop Center will have fewer containers than usual. This will also mean that the containers will fill up much faster. APES is currently emptying the containers on a daily basis. The City and Borough of Sitka and APES are doing our best to keep this area functional and clean. Please do not stack your recyclables on the ground or overfill containers. Please call Public Works at 907-747-1806 with any questions. Ad#34655d

LOTS OF ROSY CHEEKS!

Apples grow on trees, but they are related to rose bushes • There are thousands of different kinds of apples in the world, but only the crabapple is native to North America • Europeans brought apple seeds with them and planted apple trees wherever they settled • There are red, yellow, orange and green-colored apples • China grows more apples than any other country. The Granny Smith apple is named after an Australian woman named Maria Ann Smith • The largest apple ever picked weighed three pounds!
