Our Town May 18, 2017

The Soupter discovers the past is the past

The Soupster pulled alongside the drive-up window, credit card in hand, prepared to receive the pomegranate lemonade smoothie he craved. The barista gave him the drink, sweating in its plastic cup, but declined to take the Soupster's offering of his own plastic.

She giggled. "Your drink's been paid for."

The Soupster was delighted, but confused. Or confused, but delighted? Point was, he was grinning while flummoxed. He popped the straw into his tart drink and sipped as he drove away.

Who was the generous stranger? Or mischievous friend? This never happened to the Soupster, whose appearance was rough enough, evidently, to ward off strangers handing out free lemonade. He wondered how it would feel to be sitting in a tavern and have the bartender say, "The (lady or gentleman) at the end of the bar would like to buy you a refreshment." A tiny, wee bit like Publisher's Clearing House appearing at your door promising a $1,000 a week for life?

"There are those who receive free pomegranate lemonades and those who buy them for others," thought the Soupster, who considered himself one of the latter.

At lunchtime, the Soupster sat in a booth, studying the menu of one of Our Town's venerable eateries, the Tin Crab. Chowing down on his favorite geoduck tacos, he pondered the mystery of the free lemonade.

The Soupster was a regular at "The T.C." The vinyl-clad booths hid him and he went there when he wanted to go incognito. A quarter century earlier, back in his newspapering days, the Soupster had met with Sharon Stewart at The T.C. after the miraculous recovery of her heirloom wedding ring.

Sharon had married into an old Our Town family. The ring -- diamonds in a gold filigree -- had been her husband Robert's great-grandmother's. At Sharon's wedding, the ring felt a little loose on her finger. Robert was crazily active and, after two years of following his lead, Sharon sculpted herself down to the svelte. Too svelte. The ring fell off her newly-thin finger somewhere in Our Town. Robert's family was aghast, but too polite to blame Sharon, which was worse for her than being yelled at.

The tragedy brought out the best in the Soupster. He interviewed Sharon and her family and wrote such a heart-rending story that all manner of Our Towners made it their personal responsibility to find the ring. All over Our Town, pedestrians literally beat the bushes. Motorists scrutinized the tarmac of every parking lot. People searched at work, which is where the ring was finally found. Behind a rolling stool in Sharon's doctor's office.

Sharon tracked the Soupster to the Tin Crab, where he was enjoying rockfish and beach asparagus ravioli. She hugged and kissed him and showed him where she had used a piece of tape to make the ring tighter.

When the Soupster went to leave, Howard -- The T. C.'s owner, bouncer and executive chef – refused to take any money. "You earned the ravioli," he said.

Back in the present, the Soupster finished his geoduck tacos and put on his coat. Thinking about Sharon, he made for the door.

Only to get stopped cold by Howard's booming baritone. All the diners looked up.

"Hey, Soupster!" Howard called out. "You gonna pay for that?"

Sitka Arts and Science Festival Registration Now Open! Sitka Arts & Science Festival July 22-28 & July 29-August 4, 2017. As busy adults, we often fail to make time for reflection, to think and feel deeply, and to challenge ourselves to see the world in new and beautiful ways. Through the complementary lenses of art and science, and guided by an extraordinary group of artists and scientists, Sitka Arts and Science Festival participants will embark on a journey of learning and discovery. Immerse yourself in an intensive week-long workshop and experience our wilderness through guided excursions. Be inspired by performances and provoked by lectures. Go behind the scenes with musicians and actors. Reclaim your capacity for imagination and wonder. Sponsored by Sitka Fine Arts Camp and the Sitka Sound Science Center, in partnership with the National Endowment for the Arts. www.sitkafestival.org Ad#65058f

Health & Wellness

The Sitka Local Foods Network is creating a pool of volunteers to help us get the St. Peter's Fellowship Farm communal garden and our satellite gardens ready to grow food for the summer. St. Peter's Fellowship Farm is located behind St. Peter's By the Sea Episcopal Church (601 Lincoln St.). This communal garden is where we grow most of the produce sold at the Sitka Farmers Markets during the summer. St. Peter's Fellowship Farm is recognized by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's The People's Garden program. If you want to help us prepare the garden for planting, amend soil, clean up the garden, and plant seeds, contact St. Peter's Fellowship Farm lead gardener Laura Schmidt at 738-7009 to let her know about your availability. During the spring, Laura usually is working in the garden most week days, and she's looking for a couple of assistants each day instead of hosting a big work party on the weekends. Ad#23758f

Registration is now open for the Julie Hughes Triathlon. The triathlon will be held Saturday, May 20, 2017 at 9:00am at Blatchley Middle School. The event consists of a 5 mile run, 12 mile bike ride, and 1,000 yard swim. There is a special short course for the 12 and under participants. Athletes can compete individually or on a team. Teams seeking participants are encouraged to check the sign-up lists at the Hames Wellness Center and Re:Fresh. Early registration is $35 per racer ages 18 and over, $15 for 17 and under. T-shirts are guaranteed to registrations received before May 5, all others will be first come first serve at check-in. Helmets are required and all cyclists are encouraged to have bicycle safety check prior to the event at Yellow Jersey. The Baranof Barracuda Swim club hosts the triathlon, now in its 33rd consecutive year, in memory of the late Julie Hughes who passed away at the age of 15 to cancer. Proceeds from this event are donated to the Sitka Cancer Survivor Society. Pre-register online at https://www.juliehughestri.com or in person, Fri May 19 @ 6-8pm @ Blatchley Middle School. T-Shirts and bib numbers can also be picked up then. For info, call Aaron @ 623-7182 or aaron@mccullyweb.com. Ad#738590

National Bike Month kicked off Monday, May 1, and Sitka residents are encouraged to find ways to get out and ride your bike this month. Help Sitka show why it earned an upgrade to the Silver level of the Bicycle Friendly Community program in 2016, and was featured on the cover of the Winter 2017 edition of Bicycle Friendly America magazine in February. Our National Bike Month schedule includes the Sitka Bicycle Friendly Community Coalition monthly meeting on National Bike To Work Day on Fri, May 19; the Julie Hughes Triathlon on Saturday, May 20; and the Sitka Trail Works Cross Trail guided bike ride on Saturday,

May 27. This year, those cyclists who ride their bike to work, school or on errands during National Bike To Work Week (May 15-19) can fill out tickets at Yellow Jersey Cycle Shop for a chance to win a $100 gift certificate from Yellow Jersey, with other prizes possible. The prize drawing will be at the Julie Hughes Triathlon on May 20. To donate a prize, contact Doug Osborne at dosborne@sitkahospital.org. Sitka cyclists are encouraged to join with thousands of others from around the country as they ride in the third annual National Bike Challenge, a free event that runs from May 1 through Sept. 30. Cyclists can ride in the National Bike Challenge as individuals, for their workplaces or on other teams, and the mileage they log also will help their cities and states in the rankings. Last year more than 45,000 cyclists rode nearly 25 million miles during the five months of the National Bike Challenge. • 2017 National Bike Month list

JUVENILE GULL

WE LOVE KRISPIE KREME!

Seagulls are very intelligent birds who use sounds and their bodies to communicate • They are also excellent flyers • Seagulls are one of the few animals that can drink seawater • They get rid of the extra salt through two glands near their eyes • There are about 20 species of seagulls that live in every part of the world • Some gulls may live far from the sea • Seagulls mates for life. They build their nests on the beach • A seagull may survive 15 years in the wild.
