The Soupster and four colleagues view the astounding

Outside the supermarket, the Soupster occupied the driver's seat of his car. He waited impatiently for his friend Ted to emerge with the cold drinks the two men had been craving since spending the afternoon cutting and hauling firewood.

He looked at the car's clock, calculating the time that Ted would take chatting with the checkout person.

In the black SUV parked to the right, a regal-looking dog -- maybe some Afghan hound in the blood? – sat in the driver's seat and peered back at the Soupster. The Afghan looked royally bored.

Up and to the left, a Pug-faced mixed-breed dog also sat in the driver's seat of his owner's small hatchback, watching the sliding front door of the market with grim intensity for his human to appear.

In the pickup parked perpendicular, two barking Shih Tzu resembled animated stuffed toys. Their sturdy little legs were propped against the pickup's window and they barked in perfect unison at landing ravens, passing humans and nothing in particular. The tiny dogs also stared at the supermarket door, waiting for their personal human to emerge.

"Where's Ted?" thought the Soupster -- picturing himself checking his watch and tapping his foot – although he actually slouched in his seat and looked again at the dashboard clock.

The Pug-faced dog had moved to the passenger seat for a better view of the front door. The Afghan regarded that same front door and yawned. The Shih Tzu had switched to a first-one-then-the-other style of yipping, probably to husband their resources for what was turning out to be a longish haul.

They were all trapped, the Soupster thought, regarding his plight and that of his canine peers. All vibrant organisms in tin cans waiting for their rescuers. In the Soupster's case, he was held by his social bond with Ted. The dogs were even more inextricably bound in their metal prisons, having neither thumbs nor car keys.

Did that make Ted and the dog owners prison-keepers, thought the Soupster?

As people filed in and out of the front door, the Pug-faced dog jumped excitedly back and forth between driver and passenger seats. The Shih Tzu switched back to barking in unison. Even the Afghan joined in with low howling.

"Oh, my," said the Soupster.

Then a white station wagon pulled into an open parking spot. While the dogs kept up their din, the driver of the white wagon stepped out of his door and opened the rear hatch. Inside was a golden retriever-mix dog. The driver patted the dog on the head, then turned and went into the store – AND LEFT THE REAR HATCH OPEN.

The Afghan was so aghast, it ceased howling. The Shih Tzu, too, were silent, although they still moved their tiny mouths. Only the Pug retained his voice and grunted with scores of questions.

The golden retriever wasn't tied in. The hatch was open. His owner was gone. Why didn't he bolt?

The Soupster – and, he imagined, the dogs – pondered the question. Why didn't the retriever bolt?

But then Ted was in the car with the drinks. "Long line, sorry," Ted said, popping his can top, taking a long swallow and registering the Soupster's far away expression. "See anything interesting?"

Children

Pumpkin is up to something at Sitka Public Library.There's a fun scavenger hunt for children at the library. It's called "What Will Pumpkin Be for Halloween?" In the library's children's room, kids look for the 12 Halloween costumes that pumpkin is trying on. Then they write down the name of the costumes they find. Correct answers go into a random raffle. The lucky winner gets a prize. Starting on Oct 15 through Halloween, at Sitka Public Library. For 12 years old and younger. For more information, call the library at 747 8708 Ad#65357e

Sitka Babies and Books will host the annual TRICK OR READ free open house at Sitka Public Library Sat, Oct 29 at 10:30am. The featured book will be Little Blue Truck's Halloween. Children are invited to wear their Halloween costumes to enjoy a very special scavenger hunt around the library that includes readings, games, literacy activities and crafts. This is a program for babies, toddlers and preschoolers. Please notice that registration is required to receive a copy of a free board book. Everybody is welcome. For more information call the library at 747-8708 Ad#41457e

For our Youth Adventure Club: Youth of all abilities, grades 2nd-8th, are invited to join SAIL's ORCA Youth Adventure Club! Health & Wellness

SouthEast Alaska Regional Health Consortium (SEARHC) will host three new free "Doc Talks" presentations at the Hames Center. SEARHC medical providers and health educators believe the best way to prevent illness and injury is through education. Reaching out to the community with a variety of topics presented by Mt. Edgecumbe Hospital's medical providers is an excellent way to give Sitkans the opportunity to learn more about how to maintain their health. Attendees will also have the opportunity to ask questions at each presentation. The Doc Talks series is hosted by SEARHC Health Promotion and offered at no cost to ensure these valuable health-related presentations are accessible to everyone in the community. As an added convenience, there is no pre-registration required. Attendees can also look forward to healthy snacks and refreshments before each presentation. The fall 2016 Doc Talks schedule is as follows: Wednesday, October 12, 7 – 8pm: "Seasonal Affective Disorder (SAD): It's not just the 'winter blues'" (Dr. Sul-Ross Thorward) Sun, Oct 23, 5:30 – 6: 30 pm on Oct 23 during a special Women's Night: "To Squeeze or not to Squeeze: Clearing up Confusion on Breast Cancer Screening" (Dr. Valerie Edwards and Dr. Loren Laybourn) Wed, Nov 2, 7 – 8:00 pm: "Get Relief for your Aching Knees: Causes and remedies for degenerative joint disease" (Gio Villanueva, PT, DPT, ATC) For more information, call 966-8938. Be Fire Safe! The Fire Department would like to remind Sitkan in ways they can stay safer as the weather gets cold and they start heating their homes. . Cook Safely - Always keep an eye on your cooking . Extinguish all cigarettes completely. Keep combustibles away from heat sources. Use electrical outlets wisely - Don't overload. Keep matches and lighters away from children. Extinguish all candles when leaving a room or going to

In honor of National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, SouthEast Alaska Regional Health Consortium (SEARHC) Mt. Edgecumbe Hospital is offering free screening mammograms to women who make an appointment during the month of October. All women are at risk for breast cancer – it is the most commonly diagnosed cancer and the second leading cause of cancer death (after lung cancer) among Alaskan women. Regular screening can often find breast cancer early when treatments are most likely to be successful and increase the chances of long-term survival. The screening does not need to take place in October, but women must call in October to schedule

Building Southeast's Future.
PAST. PRESENT. FUTURE.
Bert Stedman's Family has been connected to communities, families and businesses in Southeast for more than a century.
Senator Bert Stedman knows Southeast Alaska. A fourth generation Alaskan; Bert has been a commercial fisherman, a small business owner, a husband and a father with a long history of public service in our communities. Like our Forefathers, Senator Stedman understands that Southeast Alaska needs more resource development opportunities, a healthy economy, good schools and safe communities to keep Alaska moving forward.

WET PHONE

Alexander Graham Bell invented the first telephone (above) in 1876 • Bell was a teacher of deaf students and worked on inventions to help people hear • He wanted people to say "Ahoy" when they answered the phone, instead of "Hello" • Since then, telephones have gone through many changes • Phones used to have to be plugged into the wall and the signal ran through wires • Today, people carry phones in their pockets and the signal goes through the air • In 2014, the number of mobile phones in the world overtook the number of people!
